PS2. Brief Description of the Programme

The MBA continues to be one of the most sought after educational credential across the globe, with Europe benefitting from an increase in applications for 2017 in comparison to 2016 as confirmed in the 'Application Trends Report 2016' by the Graduate Management Admissions Council (GMAC, 2016). The GSM MBA has recruited successfully for the past twenty years and continues to add value to the curriculum and delivery by embedding additional constructs such as market economics, environmental and social governance as well as strengths-based approach in the construction of professional identities.

The aims, design, learning outcomes, teaching, learning and assessment strategies of the MBA are informed by the 'Framework for Higher Education Qualification' (FHEQ, 2014) and the QAA 'Master's degree characteristics' (2015) and further underpinned by the dialogical discourse of the multi-disciplinary programme content. The modules are inter-related enabling the acquisition and enhancement of subject-specific (in-depth knowledge and understanding of the disciplines) as well as generic attributes (employment related soft skills) as identified by the afore-mentioned sources.

In addition, the curriculum has been informed by a combination of feedback from employers, alumni, and academics. Employer feedback via an AMBA (2016) research informed the design of the modules relating to markets and marketing as well as emerging business technologies. The GMAC 'Alumni perspectives survey report' (2017) concludes that nearly two-thirds of MBA Alumni start their own business, thereby resulting in the inclusion of the Enterprise Creation module.

The programme is tailored for adult learners (andragogy) who are highly motivated and driven by a quest for knowledge and self-development. It is 'problem' not 'content' centered and aims to encourage professionals to reflect upon and gain an understanding of 'what matters in practice' and 'what values shape decision making'; leading to the formation and consolidation of a 'professional identity'. The concept of bringing 'practice into class' is embedded in the learning experience whereby the learners are encouraged to critically evaluate workplace cultures, values and practices, and position themselves in their own organisations by projecting a transparent 'professional identity' that influences and enhances the development of professionalism in the workplace.

PS11. Academic Standards and Quality Enhancement

The Programme Leader/Manager (or other descriptor) leads the Programme Committee in the following of Plymouth University's annual programme monitoring process (APM), as titled at the time of approval. APM culminates in the production, maintenance and employment of a programme level Action Plan, which evidences appropriate management of the programme in terms of quality and standards. Any formally agreed change to this process will continue to be followed by the Programme Leader/Manager (or other descriptor) and their Programme Committee.

Elements of this process include engaging with stakeholders. In this definitive document it is important to define:

The external examining system acts as a robust safeguard of standards in the UK higher education system. The role of the external examiner is essentially that of a moderator who ensures that assessments are being written and marked according to the level and learning outcomes of the module. The external examiners assess the student's performance against the standards set by the university as well as the national sector thresholds (FHEQ, 2014). The examiners will be expected to act as 'critical friends' whilst sharing good practice in the sector by drawing from wider disciplinary standards and reference points.

Due to the multi-disciplinary nature of the programme the oversight of modules will be around broad disciplinary clusters.

Subject External Examiner(s): The modules will be clustered around broad disciplinary areas and monitored by Subject External Examiners, who will verify assessment, monitor standards of work produced and provide reports of their findings. The subject externals will be custodians of their own disciplines as well as custodians of the assessment process.

Programme External Examiner: The programme external examiner will have oversight of the programme and may also be a subject external. The programme external will be the custodian of the entire programme and comment on the overall adherence to standards. University of Plymouth Regulations apply.

Additional stakeholders specific to this programme:

The following additional stakeholders are vital to the successful delivery of this programme:

Students: Engagement through Programme Committee Meetings, student liaison meetings, Module Evaluation Questionnaires, Students' Perception Questionnaires, and discussion forums. The majority of committees within the governance structure feature student representation.

Employers: Engagement through dialogue and consultation to facilitate a curriculum focused on employability and also through participation in employability events.

Graduates: Engagement through the Alumni community.

Academic communities: Engagement through academic partnerships, collaborative research, and projects.

Guest speakers : Engagement through highly specialised areas of expertise and disciplines.

PS13. Explanation and Mapping of Learning Outcomes, Teaching & Learning and Assessment

Developing graduate attributes and skills, at any level of HE, is dependent on the clarity of strategies and methods for identifying the attributes and skills relevant to the programme and where and how these are operationalised. The interrelated factors of Teaching, Learning and Assessment and how these are inclusive in nature, are fundamentally significant to these strategies and methods, as are where and how these are specifically distributed within the programme.

Ordered by graduate attributes and skills, the following table provides a map of the above, plus an exposition to describe and explain the ideas and strategy of each. Therefore, subsequent to the initial completion for approval, maintenance of this table as and when programme structure changes occur is also important:

PS14. Work Based/Related Learning

WBL is an essential element of Master Degrees and therefore needs to be detailed here. However, for all types of HE programmes there should be an element of employability focus through, at least, Work Related Learning, and therefore the following is applicable for all:

Appendix I: Programme Map - Default Route

The Programme Map groups modules into three stages to show the recommended running order or 'default route' of the MBA. In the event that a student exits the programme prior to completing the full MBA, any combination of modules equal to 60 credits can be undertaken to achieve a Postgraduate Certificate and any combination of modules equal to 120 credits can be undertaken to achieve a Postgraduate Diploma.

The default electives at Stage 3 are: Group 1 Enterprise Creation and Group 2 Dissertation.

Learners will be encouraged to make an elective choice during stage two of the programme. This process will be supported by showcasing all available elective modules at an 'electives fair', as well as ensuring that the choice being made is an informed one. Should a learner be unable to make an elective choice prior to a stated deadline, the default electives identified above would be automatically applied to a learner's programme.
